Commandos' Chief

Lord Mountbatten

Prime Minister Winston Churchill has revealed that the recent daring Commando raids against Nazi-occupied bases were planned and executed under the direction of Lord Louis Mountbatten, cousin of King George and a vice admiral in the British Navy. Churchill disclosed that Lord Mountbatten was appointed chief of the Commandos, with the honorary rank of lieutenant general and air marshal, last Oct. 19.

LONDON. — A large Russian tank force which embarked at Novorossiisk has been landed on the Kerch peninsula, the Stockholm newspaper Dagbladet Nya said today, according to Reuters' news agency. (EDITOR'S NOTE: Novorossiisk is a Russian Black sea port in the Caucasus. Shipment of a tank force across the Kerch Straits would be a logical move to reinforce Red army defenses in that section of the Crimea to prevent a Nazi thrust into vital oil regions of the Caucasus.)

TOKYO. — (By Official Japanese Wireless) — The Imperial Japanese high command claimed today that up to last Sunday it had taken 40,000 soldiers prisoner on Bataan peninsula. Among these, the Japanese asserted, were 15 generals and 6,700 American troops. The high command named Major Generals King, Jones, Parker and Francisco among the prisoners.

RETURN OF LAVAL SENDS GOTHAM MARKET LOWER

NEW YORK, April 14 — The stock market softened today and the majority of leaders followed the downward trend of steel and price averages touched the four-year low reached last March 11. Most price changes were fractional, however.

The reported re-instatement of Pierre Laval in the Vichy government, indicating a further swing towards the axis, was the chief unsettling influence.

NAZIS LOSE FIVE BOMB PLANES IN MALTA RAID

VALETTA, Malta, April 14 — Within the last 24 hours, crews of at least five German bombers have become painfully aware that the British anti-aircraft batteries on oft-bombed Malta are still functioning vigorously and accurately.

An official communique today disclosed that five of the Nazi bombers participating in the latest of the innumerable attacks on the strategic Mediterranean island fortress were destroyed, apparently by the anti-aircraft batteries which the Germans claimed to have silenced.

CHILD CRUSHED BY COAL TRUCK

Dolly Jean Marshall, 3, Hurt Seriously; X-rays Show Many Bones Broken

Three-year-old Dolly Jean Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Marshall, Logan street, was in critical condition in Berger hospital Tuesday suffering from injuries she received when caught under the wheels of a truck Monday about 3:15 p. m.

The little girl was playing alone near the truck, parked near the Winor Canning company and driven by William F. Turner, 19, 624 South Scioto street, when the vehicle's driver started to drive away.

Apparently she ran into the truck and was knocked to the ground when it started up. Traffic Officer Miller Fissell reported.

Her injuries included a fractured left hip and pelvis and a crushed left shoulder.

Hospital authorities said she was not expected to live. X-rays were taken to determine the extent of her injuries. Her attending physician is Dr. V. D. Kerns, who also reported her condition critical.

Turner told police that he had stopped his truck, which was loaded with coal, to talk to his father, Merle, and that when he started to drive away he did not see the little girl.

PLANES STRIKE BOTH SIDES OF CHANNEL REGION

LONDON, April 14 — Britain and Germany today continued their air duels across the English channel, with Nazi planes bombing coastal districts of England while RAF planes attacked coastal areas of occupied France.

The British air ministry announced that a small number of German raiders appeared over eastern and northeastern coastal districts of England and dropped bombs at several points last night and early today. There were some casualties and some damage, but neither was large, it was said.

(The Berlin radio quoted a dispatch of DNB, official German news agency, saying RAF planes ranged over German coastal territories during the night. DNB claimed the British were turned back by German defenses and dropped no bombs. One of the raiders assertedly was shot down. German bombers were said to have attacked a number of points along the Thames river estuary.)

Estimates placed the number of German raiders over England at 12.

High explosives were dropped over a wide area, striking working-class residential districts.

Considerable damage was reported due to houses in one town on the east coast. First reports said nine persons were killed in the town and a number of others injured. Rescue workers continued to hunt through ruins during the morning.

Meeting In Court House Set For Next Week; Advisory Board To Appear

Occupational questionnaires will be mailed this week to approximately 500 of the 1,330 men who signed up for military service during the February registration.

Pickaway county draft headquarters announced Tuesday that questionnaires had just arrived at the local office and that about one third of them were being sent out. The questionnaires are being mailed according to serial number, which means that registrants having the low 500 serial numbers will receive their forms within the next few days.

Next Wednesday, April 22, the advisory board with members of the Pickaway County Bar association will be in the common pleas court room of the court house to fill out occupational forms. Members of the advisory board are Charles May, Tom Gilliland and Robert Musser.

Registrants who are not certain how to fill out the questionnaires should report at the court house between 10 a. m. and 5 p. m. next Wednesday. They are advised to not seek assistance from any member of the local draft board or local office staff, since such officials are not permitted to give advice on filling out the forms. The questionnaires must be filled out in ink and must be correct or they will be returned.

Others Come Later

Later, the forms will be mailed to all persons who signed up for military service during the third registration, the local board said, but that only about one third of the group would be handled at the present time.

Occupational questionnaires are entirely aside from those being sent through the regular draft procedure and are designed to measure the county's manpower. They do not determine when a (Continued on Page Two)

NATION'S BLOOD BANKS MAY BE AIDED BY COWS

DETROIT, April 14 — Cows, not humans, may soon be used to stock the nation's blood banks, Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the journal of the American Medical association, opined today.

Experiments have shown that a protein precipitate, an important factor in the blood, can be extracted from the blood of cows, Dr. Fishbein said.

Dawley announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination just the other day from Sydney, Australia.

The name of Dawley, a participant in two wars, was on the lips of almost everyone—from the miners in Anaconda's big copper hill to the growers in the state's wide-spread wheat fields; from the barbershops in Butte to the corridors of the statehouse at Helena.

Some said they had never heard of Dawley before; others tabbed him a real "dark horse". All agreed, however, that his political BUTTE, Mont., April 14 — Montana appeared quite excited—although political bigwigs still were a bit dazed—today over the bid of Lieut. Col. Charles R. Dawley for the governor in the state's wide-spread wheat fields; from the barbershops in Butte to the corridors of the statehouse at Helena.

Some said they had never heard of Dawley before; others tabbed him a real "dark horse". All agreed, however, that his political bid puts plenty of color into the senatorial campaign.

The 44-year-old Dawley is a former paper company manager at Great Falls, Mont., where he was known as a "go-getter". He quit civilian life when the Montana National Guard was called into active duty. Close friends of the 5-foot 8-inch officer described him as a "quiet, unassuming fellow."

But he loves the spectacular, whether it is a battle of bullets or balloons—or a boat race.

He brought the "City of Malta" one of the last boats up the Missouri river before it was closed by the Fort Peck, Mont., dam, in a race with other boats from St. Louis, Mo., to Fort Benton in 1939. He was once police chief at Great Falls and town marshal at Glendive, an eastern Montana cowtown.

Move To Raise Billions For War Effort, Cut Inflation Chances Looming

SENATOR GEORGE QUOTED

Congressional Pressure For Price, Wage Freezing Reported Growing

WASHINGTON, April 14 — Congressional sources today revealed that the Treasury Department is planning a war-bond selling campaign on an unprecedented scale, designed both to raise billions to back the nation's fighting forces and to combat increasing menace of inflation.

Applauding the treasury's determination to put war-bonds in every home, Sen. Walter F. George (D) Ga., chairman of the Senate finance committee, said that bond sales should be increased to $20,000,000,000 this year. At the present rate the treasury is averaging the sale of about $1,000,000,000 a month.

"As a matter of fact, we should sell $24,000,000,000 in bonds this year and $36,000,000,000 next year," the senator said.

While President Roosevelt is devoting himself to framing an anti-inflation program, which may be laid before Congress next Monday, congressional pressure for freezing of prices and wages, labor legislation and restriction of war profits continued.

Congressional leaders, however, turned a deaf ear toward the reported proposals of Price Administrator Leon Henderson and Federal Reserve Board Governor Marriner Eccles for an increase of from $4,000,000,000 to $6,000,000,000 in the present $9,000,000,000 tax program.

ONE WIFE ONLY TO SHARE PAY OF U. S. SOLDIER

WASHINGTON, April 14 — As the House military affairs committee began hearings on a military pay increase, Rep. Edmiston (D) W. Va., today said he will ask the committee to amend his dependency allotment measure so that only one wife will be entitled to a share in a soldier's pay.

The Edmiston bill, which provides for compulsory allotments to dependents ranging from $15 a month to a maximum of $50, will be taken up for consideration after the committee disposes of the pay raise proposal.

"There were too many wives and not enough soldiers to go around in the last war," Edmiston said. "Too many mademoiselles from Armentieres and everywhere else. In some cases we had as many as 10 women getting a share of a soldier's pay."

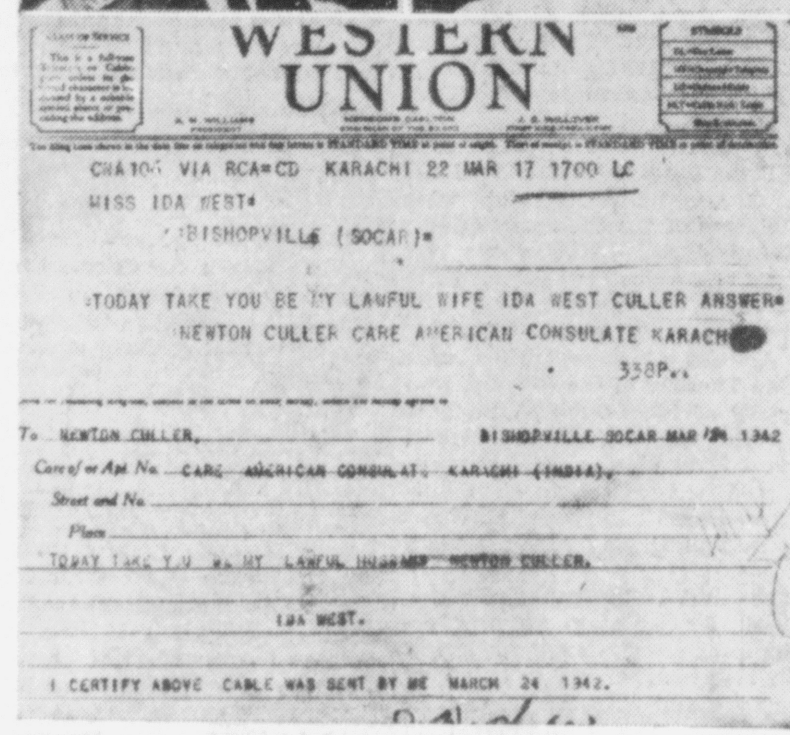

Edmiston said that he will also ask that the maximum allotment under his proposal be increased to $65. He said that he will oppose any move to tack his bill as a rider to the $228,000,000 Senate-approved pay raise measure.

BRITAIN BOOSTS TAXES ON BEER AND WHISKY

Half Of Calcutta's Big Population Is Evacuated

LONDON, April 14 — Faced with the threat of an early Japanese invasion attempt, the city of Calcutta has evacuated half of its 1,500,000 residents and another 250,000 will leave before the end of April, the Daily Mail reported today.

The Daily Mail also said in a Calcutta dispatch that at least 130,000 of the 600,000 residents of Madras had moved into the interior of India.

The evacuations were said to have been stimulated greatly by the disclosure that a Japanese battlefleet of hitherto unsuspected size is in the Indian ocean. Similar precautions were under way all along the Indian coast, the dispatch said.

Reuters' reported that the government of Madras had declared a holiday in all banks of the Madras fortress area to permit the institutions to move to new business sites out of the immediate danger zone.

Basing its prediction on the figures of the Japanese Indian ocean fleet strength announced yesterday by Prime Minister Winston Churchill as well as the appointment of Admiral Sir James Somerville as commander-in-chief of the British Eastern fleet, the London Daily Telegraph today anticipated a big naval engagement off India in the near future.

The Daily Express, however, said that Somerville would have to spend a considerable amount of time assembling a trained fleet before attempting to seek out and engage a possibly superior Japanese fleet.

FBI HUNTS NAZI AGENTS IN SKI CAMPS OF WEST

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14 — Fashionable ski resorts in California's high Sierra mountains, often visited in pre-war days by Capt. Fritz Weidemann, former German consul general in San Francisco, were under close scrutiny today by the FBI.

FBI agents recalling that Weidemann displayed extraordinary interest in the Sierra country, repeatedly visiting the Winter sports center—usually with a retinue of German nationals he described as ski experts—were investigating public and private establishments in the belief that many of these "experts" may still be "guests" at mountain lodges.

More than a score of agents, aided by operatives from the state attorney general's office and deputies from Nevada county, were reported checking such nationally known ski centers as Sugar Bowl, Soda Springs, Norden and Truckee.

Results of the investigations were not revealed by Nat. J. Pieper, regional FBI chief.

The Army yesterday began the removal of Japanese from the Downey area — approximately 2,500—to the assembly center at Santa Anita race track. Several hundred of the evacuees formed a motorcade under Army supervision in Los Angeles and were escorted to the race track.

Corregidor Fights On As American Bombers Hit New Guinea, Timor

By International News Service

Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, the little old man who heads the Vichy government of France, has bowed before the shrill threats of Adolf Hitler.

Although no official announcement was made, Pierre Laval, high priest of complete collaboration with Nazi Germany, has been restored to the cabinet as vice-premier. This meant that Petain had given up the fight and that Germany would now run unopposed as well as occupied France.

In thus choosing Germany against the United States, which recently received new assurances of Vichy determination not to bow to the Nazis, Petain was forced into a position which obviously he was loathe to assume. What moves, if any, will be taken by the United States were not immediately clear, but American officials were gravely concerned.

The U. S. State department has wooed Petain consistently, hoping to prevent the French fleet from falling into Nazi hands along with the all-important French African naval bases at Dakar and Casablanca. There also were fears that France might hand over to the Japanese the huge French island of Madagascar in the Indian ocean.

While this battle of diplomacy was continuing in the West, the Philippine fortress of Corregidor continued bloody but unbowed under the hammer blows of Japanese aerial might, and American and Australian pilots continued to batter the enemy from Australian bases.

Two Tank Columns Hit

The defenders of Corregidor blasted two enemy tank columns operating on Bataan peninsula, and sent to the bottom of Manila bay a medium-sized enemy ship.

Meanwhile, United Nations bombers roared over Japanese beachheads on New Guinea and Dutch Timor to blast airfields, buildings and other ten enemy planes. Two enemy ships were believed hit in the raid on Koepang.

The RAF and the Nazi Luftwaffe traded blows during the night with undetermined results. One unnamed British town suffered heavily.

SIXTEEN MAJOR LEAGUE TEAMS OPEN FLAG RACE

By International News Service

Baseball—America's No. 1 sport—makes its annual debut today under war-time conditions.

More than 200,000 fans will crowd into the bleachers and grandstands to witness the unveiling of the 103rd season of the national pastime.

Chief opening day interest as usual was centered in Washington where President Roosevelt was invited to throw out the first ball in the game between the Senators and the New York Yankees. War time exigencies, however, forced the President to remain at his desk and miss his first opening game since he entered the White House in 1933.

Effect of the war was apparent in the starting lineups of the Major League clubs with many familiar faces now in the armed forces of Uncle Sam.

The opening day schedule finds in the American league: New York at Washington; Philadelphia at Boston; St. Louis at Chicago and Cleveland at Detroit. In the National league: Brooklyn at New York; Boston at Philadelphia; Pittsburgh at Cincinnati and Chicago at St. Louis.

tion for goods, boosting of prices and inflation.

"I believe that by making provisions in the tax bill we could encourage investment of $8,000,000,000 additional in bonds," said George. "I am sure that the treasury will greatly intensify its efforts to sell bonds."

Rejecting suggestions for a huge increase in the tax bill, which now is before the House ways and means committee, George said that "the time has passed when we can consider paying half the cost of the war and we will do well if we liquidate one-third the cost in cash."

Mr. Roosevelt was reported to be leaning toward a general freezing of prices and wages and ultimately to a compulsory savings plan, under which a withholding tax would be levied and the amount placed in bonds to the credit of the individual, to be repaid after the war.

LEND-LEASE AID TO ISLE EMPIRE HITS BIG TOTAL

LONDON, April 14.—The United States already has sent $2,400,000,000 worth of lend-lease war materials to Britain and a steady stream is expected whether this nation can pay the bill or not, Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Kingsley Wood told the House of Commons today.

"Lend-lease deliveries from the United States are a vital factor in our war effort," he said in presenting his budget for the current year.

"Lend-lease deliveries to the United Kingdom up to March 31 totaled approximately 600,000,000 pounds sterling ($2,400,000,000)."

"We can be assured that movement of munitions and other essential supplies to the United Kingdom from overseas will be conditioned not on our ability or inability to pay, but on the requirements of military policy and the availability of transport."

Sir Kingsley paid lavish tribute to American aid.

"Since last year," he said, "the broadening swell of American productive efforts meant an ever-increasing flow to us of food, ammunition and supplies of all kinds."

"The future trend of lend-lease aid, he said, obviously must depend not only on American production but on shipping and military necessities elsewhere."

"A larger proportion of the total hereafter will be transferred to India and the dominions," he said.

"Lend-lease will be more feasible hereafter."

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. REIS, O. S. U. Horticulturist

Question: Do you know where one could purchase, or the place where one could get a book giving the pronunciation of names of plants and flowers? Mrs. M. F. North Baltimore.

Answer: The Pronouncing Dictionary by Alfred Hodges is expensive but surprisingly complete.

Question: For years I have been trying to raise gladioli. I buy new No. 1 bulbs, plant them, dig them when the weather becomes cold, dry them and store them in paper boxes in the cellar until the first of May. I plant again and when harvesting the second time they are only No. 4 bulbs. They never become as large as they were when first planted. Some do not even multiply. Is it the seed which I buy direct from nurseries? Is it the soil or a characteristic of gladioli? If it is the soil, what can I do to have beautiful glads? Mrs. R. S. Long Bottom.

Answer: Although disease might be the cause of your gladioli becoming smaller and smaller, it is more likely poor soil together with a lack of soil preparation and fertilization. No. 1 sized corns should stay that size for several years before gradually deteriorating, and smaller corns should gradually become larger each year until they reach top size. May I suggest you treat your soil just as I recommended in my answer to the question above from Wheelersburg. In addition, I would recommend the application of two to three pounds per 100 square feet of soil a complete commercial fertilizer with an analysis of 4-12-4 or something similar. Your county agent has our bulletin, "Gladioli and Dahlia Culture". I am sure you will find this helpful.

Question: I have a question in regard to some soil that I wish to use as a garden. It is very heavy and breaks up coarsely and sometimes somewhat resembles hardpan as it packs so easily after a heavy rain. I have applied one crop of rye and one of soybeans together with a liberal supply of coal ash. I have access to a liberal supply of fresh sawdust. Would you recommend placing this thinly over the ground, or would there be danger of excess acid which might be detrimental? J. B. L. Wheelersburg.

Answer: If you have already spaded under a crop of rye in the spring and a crop of soybeans in mid-summer, even a very poor soil should be in fairly good condition. You will also find it advantageous to spade in up to a 3- to 5-inch layer of coal ashes into the top 12 to 15 inches of soil. I would not use sawdust unless it had been weathered for a year or more. Fresh pine sawdust is injurious. Fresh oak sawdust would make the naturally acid soil in your locality too acid. If you did use sawdust, it would not pay to bother with less than an inch or two of weathered material. It might even be advisable to grow another crop of soybeans next summer and spade them under when they are about one foot in height.

Question: Which roses are best grafted or budded? A. L. K. Springfield.

Answer: Rose grafting is a greenhouse operation and is used almost entirely for greenhouse roses but seldom for garden roses. Consequently, unless roses have been grown in the greenhouse for cutting flowers and sold after two or three years of production, practically all the roses that are sold commercially are budded on some hardy stock.

FLAMES SWEEP LUMBER YARDS IN PAINESVILLE

PAINESVILLE, April 14.—A fire of undetermined origin raging through the yards of the Economy Lumber company today caused $50,000 damage, tied up telephone service and threatened a nearby oil company and railroad yards.

Fire Chief Lee Elliott said the cause of the blaze was obscure. The fire roared through stacks of lumber in a 700 square foot area and reached the offices of the company.

Firemen from Mentor, Painesville, Painesville township and Fairport Harbor fought the flames for several hours and prevented the fire from spreading to the bulk oil plant of the Lake County Oil company.

The fire was discovered at 2:55 a. m. and burned until nearly dawn.

STORY OF YANK AIR SUCCESSES TOLD BY CHIEF

Major Carmichael Arrives In MacArthur Headquarters After Campaign

MANY HEROES PRAISED

Six Weeks In Command Of Bomber Group Reviewed By Texan

MELBOURNE, April 14 — The complete story of the hard hitting operations of United States bombers in the New Guinea and New Britain areas was related today by Major Richard Carmichael, of Austin, Texas.

Major Carmichael has just arrived at General MacArthur's headquarters to become director of bombardment after six weeks in command of the American bomber group smashing Jap bases off northern Australia.

During 40 days of action, Major Carmichael disclosed, 15 missions were carried out, netting destruction estimated at two score Japanese fighters and bombers, terrific damage to Japanese airports and military installations and, best of all, a total of 20 Nippon ships blasted and either sunk or damaged.

This included five Japanese heavy cruisers caught off guard in the vicinity of Rabaul and Kupang, Timor.

Carmichael's group, which arrived at Honolulu during the December 7 attack, was immediately readied for a dash westward to reinforce Gen. George Brett's United Nations air forces. The biggest raid carried out was against Salamaua and Lae on the western coast of New Guinea, where the Japanese first landed. Working with the R.A.A.F. and United Nations naval units, the American fliers helped to blast seven Japanese ships and 15 Japanese bombers.

Australians Praised

Carmichael praised the Australians for their magnificent courage. They take to the air in any thing flyable, he said, just for the opportunity to hit the Japs.

The first big raid of the American group, Carmichael said, was toward Rabaul, netting "good results" against airdromes and shipping. Captain Raymond Swensen, of Minnesota, and Captain Harry Brandon, of Little Rock, Ark., managed to shoot down two Zeros apiece in what Carmichael described as one of the "hottest" bomber pursuit fights ever seen. Japanese pursuit planes chased Carmichael, Swensen and Brandon for 40 minutes, the latter two being forced to protect Carmichael's ship.

Two Engines Wrecked

Two of Carmichael's engines were wrecked by enemy fire.

"They kept coming at us in wave after wave," he said. "Their guns damaged the engines of both Swensen's and Brandon's ships and wounded three of Swensen's crew members and two of Brandon's crew."

Carmichael, a tall, handsome officer, is generally credited with being in direct charge of the first United States air offensive against the Japanese after Nippon's overwhelming Philippine and Nei victories.

Carmichael highly praised all of the American pilots. Those serving with him during some of the damaging raids he said, were Captains William Lewis, Salt Lake City; Harold Chaffin, Fort Smith, Ark.; Frank Bostrom, Boston; Harry Speith, Wisconsin; Jack Roberts, Little Rock; David Rawls, Miami, and Frederick Eaton, Scarsdale, N. Y.

RENTAL FOR AMMUNITION PLANT SITE BEING PAID

CHILLICOTHE, April 14—Acquisition of a 1,500 acre tract of land in southeast Ross county for the construction of a medium caliber ammunition plant began Monday when property owners were receiving $12,000 representing six months' rental in advance.

Attorney John Phillips Jr., received instructions from the National Firearms, Inc., West Hanover, Mass., Monday, to take up the options and sign leases. All but two landowners in the area are leasing their land at $15 an acre a year. Leases for Arthur Jones and Jeannette Sullivan call for $20 an acre a year.

The company site may be leased for six years, under the lease provisions, or the company may purchase the lands at any time during the lease on payment of $100 an acre, plus valuation of farm buildings and improvements.

The cablegram was filed in Australia.

STARS SAY—

For Tuesday, April 14

DESPITE trivial set backs, delays and disruptions this should be a day of satisfactory progress, expansion, and personal pleasure as well as profit. In fact the personality and social activity and appeal may be an important factor in promoting the cherished objectives and ambitions and friendly interest from high places may be sought with confidence. Such personal popularity and prestige will be sustained by much business acumen and sound judgment.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is should have a year of increased funds and possessions, with enhanced popularity and prestige, which should be used for putting over major programs of ambitious scope. It is an expansive, productive and progressive period, with gain from acute sagacity and acumen, supported by the element of friendship, hospitality and good fellowship. High goals in business, professional as well as financial objectives should be aimed at.

A child born on this day should have splendid intellect as well as astute business insight and efficiency. The purely personal equation may enter into the commonplace activities and enhance the pleasure of the private life.

U. S.-TURKISH FRONT?

AMERICAN troops and materials have been going to Europe for many weeks now, in preparation for a powerful push somewhere when the big fighting starts. Where will they go? Only insiders know. It has been generally assumed by the Americans that they will go to the Continent, because they did so last time. But Col. Dragutin Savich, head of a Yugoslav mission that has been in this country lately, has another notion. They might go to the Middle East.

Whatever may be done behind Hitler's back when he is once committed to his new drive against Russia, the Yugoslavs may be trusted to have a hand in it. They have held fast and recruited busily through the winter, until they now have 100,000 patriots ready for a spring offensive, under Gen. Draja Mihailovich, the guerrilla leader.

Col. Savich maintains that if a large enough force of American and British troops, with modern equipment, can be assembled in the Middle East, Turkey will join the United Nations for an invasion of Nazi Europe. Our troops would reach the eastern Mediterranean by way of the Red Sea and Suez Canal. Joining the Turks, they would press up through the Balkans, joining forces with Mihailovich's army, to invade Germany itself and take Hitler's eastern army in the rear.

It seems like a wild dream. But stranger things have happened in this war. The surest thing is that there are going to be a lot of surprises.

JAVA FIGHTS ON

THE fight is not over in Java. Two Dutch forces under Generals Schilling and Pressman are still holding out in the hills. This cheering news has been brought to General MacArthur by Lieutenant-General Van Mook, the recent commander of the Dutch forces.

Every example of resistance, no matter by whom, counts. Every Japanese force halted, if only for a day, throws out the Japanese time-table just that much more, and brings that much nearer the day of final victory.

Silver is suggested as a substitute for tin. The so-called precious metals, gold and silver, are apparently going to leave the luxury class and be applied to everyday uses. We may yet eat with gold spoons and envy our richer friends who actually have spoons made of tin.

Even patient old Uncle Sam at last cracks down on traitors.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour By Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:
Out and about the ville on a mighty fine morning and everywhere did find smiles and happy greetings. Nothing in the war or domestic news to warrant such feeling so it must have been the weather. Headed for the office and found things running smoother than usual. Had about arrived at the conclusion that some of the boys didn't care whether or not they had jobs and I had practically fallen into the same mood on their situations.

Saw Carl Hunter as he was driven past in a car. Waved happily, for I was glad to see him out after several weeks of confinement to his home by illness. Miss greatly my frequent chats with him and his happy laugh. Called at City Hall and heard a woman explaining why she was overtime at a parking meter. To her the reason was nothing but logic, but to the officer it was something else. However, he let her go, which was about the only thing he could do.

Another baseball season at hand and the Cincinnati Reds rated no higher than second by most of the experts. In the American it is the Yanks, of course. What with the draft and one thing and another any team might win in either league. A lot of the boys are slated to be playing in the greatest game of all before too long and the fact that they are professional ball players will not prevent their call. Joe Louis, the greatest athlete of them all right now, is in there slugging. Wouldn't you pay a lot to see Joe in a ring with Hitler and Hirohito?

Not yet very much in our favor is the war, but it seems a turn in the tide is indicated. London tells us—London mind you as an American news source—that within six weeks American plane production will equal that of the axis partners. That's the kind of news we would like to get first hand. However, it is welcome whatever the source.

In the evening did go to the Grand to see the Marine picture, the first movie I have attended in quite a while. Learned that it had broken all house records, even surpassing Sergeant York. Don't think it is in the same class with Sergeant York, but it is a good picture just the same. Attendance indicates an increase in war interest and a desire for American victory. One is absolutely certain of victory in every movie undertaking.

The picture had the usual smart alec. A lot like newspaper films in which the cub reporter bawls out the editors and then goes out and covers the biggest story of the decade all alone. The boot in the Marine picture tries to make a monkey of his drill sergeant. Were he to perform that way in the regular corps he would be tripping over his white chin whiskers before he even neared the end of his kitchen police extra duty tour. Why, he even socked the sergeant and got away with it. Had that happened in the Marine corps, he would have been sent to the brig from now on right after he got out of the hospital. I know because I was a Marine. Never socked any sergeants or even talked back to them seriously, but not because I didn't want to do so.

CITIZENS CRITICIZE BOARD

WASHINGTON — One of the chief criticisms insiders make against the Maritime Commission is its resistance to independent initiative and ideas. The Truman Committee has a big stack of complaints from enterprising business men eager to risk their own money to build ships but unable to get a break from the Commission.

A graphic illustration of the hide-bound attitude permeating the Commission is the case of the West Stanislaus County, Calif., bean growers.

Military and civilian war chiefs consider it vital that every one on the home front be made to feel that he is playing a direct and personal part in the war effort. Every war agency spends much time and effort devising ways of stimulating this spirit of patriotic participation.

Without any spurring from Washington, the patriotic bean growers of West Stanislaus County figured out a plan to make a personal contribution to the war production program. So they wrote a letter to the Maritime Commission saying:

"You need scrap steel for ships and we farmers need an outlet for an overwhelming desire to help our country. We don't want to sell our scrap to junk dealers. We don't want anyone to make any money on it. We want to give it to the government. We are ready to make a county-wide drive to collect every available pound of scrap. We can promise to collect enough scrap to build a ship and we will deliver it to a mill and the mill can mail a check—marked as a contribution for more ships—to the U. S. Treasury.

"We're cooperating in the 'Food for Victory Program,' we're organized on Civilian Defense, but what we really want to do is to get in on the offense."

The response to this stirring patriotic offer was a polite bucket of cold water. In a letter to the farmers, Rear Admiral Howard L. Vickery, vice chairman of the Maritime Commission, gave a number of picaresque reasons why the scrap offer could not be accepted. There wasn't one of these minor objections that couldn't have been easily overcome—had the Commission really wanted to bestir itself.

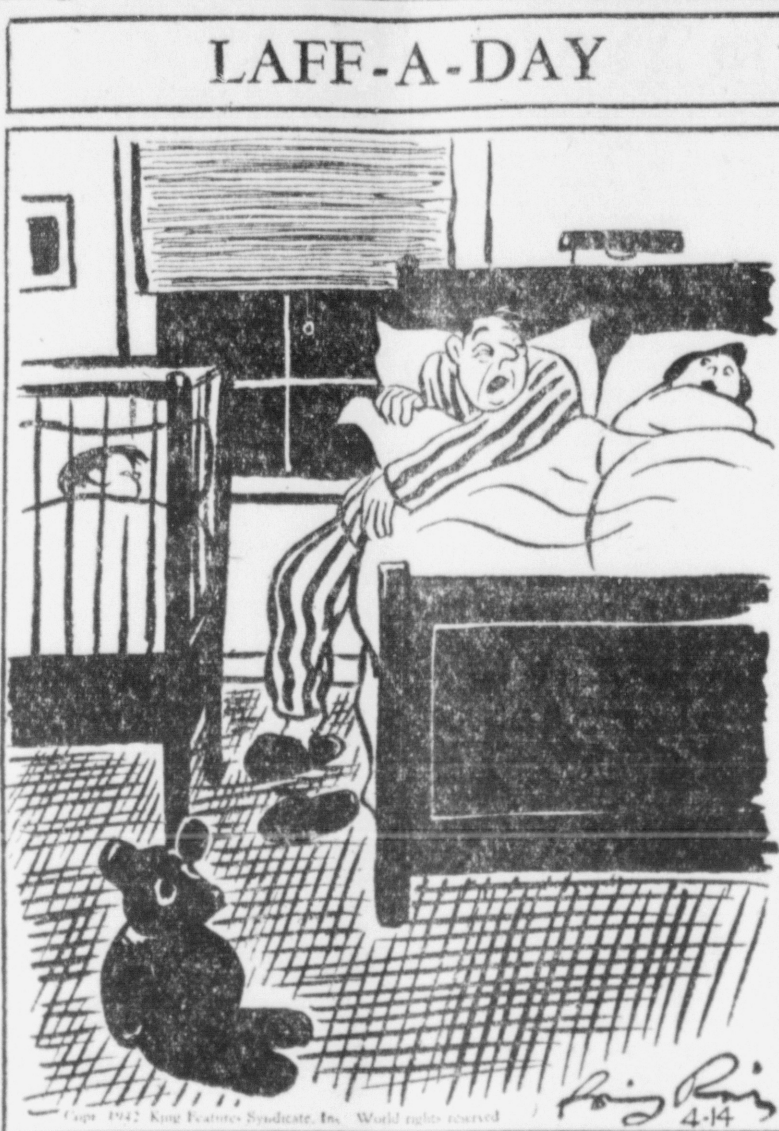

But the bean growers' plan would have required a little initiative on the Commission's part, so the Commission passed the buck. Vickery advised the farmers to "get in touch with the Department of Agriculture's County War Board Chairman who is familiar with the procedure to follow"—that is, to turn the scrap over to a commercial dealer.

CAMERA-SHY FALLA

The President is noted for his friendly relations with photographers. Even in these hectic times, he seldom turns the lens-men away when they want some special "shots" of him. This cooperative spirit, however, is not shared by his scottie, Falla.

For some reason Falla does not cotton to photographers. He regards them with the same suspicious dislike that he harbors for the squirrels on the White House grounds. Falla has never been able to get along with the squirrels—a highly mutual situation, it might be added. This accounts

Service Tests Reveal Eye and Tooth Defects

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE WHOLE country, including the President of the United States, has been unnecessarily shocked on account of the number of rejections for the new army. According to Dr. Roger L. Lee, President of the American College of Physicians: "The greatest per cent of physical deferments in Selective Service has been made so far for defective teeth and defective eyesight, regulations for which and the interpretation thereof by draft boards have been over-rid.".

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Dr. Lee is notable for common sense and this pronouncement is an example of it. The teeth and the eyes are very complicated anatomical instruments and the theoretically perfect set of teeth and the theoretically perfect set of eyes are very rare.

Slight Imperfections

To take the teeth, which can be more easily explained, if your two upper teeth do not meet exactly the edges of your two lower teeth, then you are in a defective class. Of course, this doesn't mean that your general health is bad or that you cannot do just as strenuous work as somebody else whose teeth do happen to occlude perfectly.

The eye is a spherical globe filled with liquid and naturally the geometrical projection of the sphere is not absolutely perfect. This does not necessarily result in bad eyesight and certainly does not necessarily mean bad general health. All such defects can be corrected by glasses and the majority of them are corrected by exercise and unconscious adaptation by the person himself.

Another common preventable defect which was detected by the Selective Service Boards is squint or cross eye in one eye. Many of these have been corrected by surgery. Neglect of after-care in the way of eye exercises sometimes makes the operation useless, because such exercises make the vision nearly perfect.

Another cause of rejection has been opacities or scars of the cornea. The cause of this defect is possibly an infection or a lack of vitamin B complex and when healing has taken place, the amount of visual defect is very slight and is not likely to return.

There is no reason for hysteria about the state of the national health on the basis of the rejection of draftees, especially since the majority of the rejections were made on the basis of dental and visual defects, which have no significance as far as general health is concerned, and are easily corrected. Many of the fighting men with one bad eye or a few missing teeth in the last war cleaned out a machine gun nest.

Col. Leonard Rowntree, Chief of the Medical Division of the National Selective Service Headquarters stated that: "Selective Service is holding a mirror before the public and giving the facts and indicating the need. On this basis should be built a new public health for the nation." In a general way I agree with this, and that it is necessary to have methods of public education and treatment of eye and teeth defects in the public schools; better lighting conditions and safety measures in all industrial plants are also essential.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

F. W. B.: In our school the children may purchase whole milk or chocolate drinks for mid-morning lunch. Am I unduly prejudiced against chocolate, or is it true that the milk is much better for them?

The bottle cap reads "whole milk, skim milk, chocolate flavor and sugar." The chocolate drink is very popular and some children have it every school day.

Answer: The chocolate flavor does not modify the value of whole milk, if I understand you correctly, in supposing that the chocolate drink contains whole milk with chocolate flavor added. I think you have a legitimate objection if the children are simply getting a chocolate-flavored drink. As you have observed, it debauches their taste.

G. A. M.: Is there such a thing as superfluous hair being caused by a gland condition?

Answer: Yes. The conditions are rare, but it is known that changes in the adrenal and pituitary glands cause superfluous hair. However, this is not the cause in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred of superfluous hair.

P. R.: "What vitamins, minerals and so forth are in the following?" malt, eggs, beef marrow, lemons?

Answer: Malt: Vitamins A and B, calcium, phosphorus and possibly iron. Eggs: Vitamins A, B, and D. Practically all the minerals. Beef marrow: Probably all the vitamins and many minerals. Lemons: Vitamin C.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The price of nine cents a square foot for sidewalks and 40 cents a lineal foot for curbing was to be continued by the WPA sidewalk project as it opened its second year.

CHAPTER FORTY-FOUR

DRESSING for an evening of celebration, Anette thought, "If anyone had predicted two years ago that I'd be spending New Year's Eve with Lois Lyndon, on a friendly basis, I'd have told them they were crazy." It still amazed her occasionally that Lois had become her dearest friend.

She now was an even closer one than August, who, besides being older, was eternally dashing about with her sportsman husband to open a villa in Palm Beach, a town house in New York, a fishing cottage on the coast of Maine, a hunting lodge in the Kaibab forest. Here and there, forever scurrying.

Naturally the chummy association with Lois had drawn the young actress nearer James Lyndon, in a gradual sort of way that was hardly noticeable. They had gone about consistently during the past year, as often as Anette could spare time from her work. A trio, or perhaps a foursome, Lois with some one of the young men perpetually hovering about her.

To Santa Anita, to rest in the sun between races and stare at people and beautiful flowers and farther, at the mist-hung gray-purple and golden hills. To the fights where the mild green tigrish and yelled either cheers or abuse. To restaurants, dancing clubs, bowling alleys and movies. Always moving. Thinking back, Anette realized how much her two friends had helped make the past year bearable. James with his good disposition and quiet dependability. His sister with her contrasting personality of laughter and slangy conversation that bubbled like a whistling teakettle.

Lois was bubbling in her usual fashion when she, her escort and Jimmy arrived to pick up Anette. Vivacious and lovely in her black-spangled blue lace gown, she slung her hand toward the tall young fellow trailing behind her. "This is Silver Greer, Anette. His real name is something—I can't remember right now—anyway, there he is." She moved toward a table, found cigarettes in a carnelian box, then busied herself with ice cubes and Scotch.

"Hello, Silver," Anette welcomed and took the chap's hand, at the same time taking hold of Jimmy's with her left.

Lois was back with a drink which she handed to her escort. To her brother she said, "Fix your own." She then ordered the embarrassed Silver Greer, "Start gawking, son." Not at all affected by his painful blushes, she told Anette, "He's seen each of your pictures six times. Ardent admirer, adoring fan—abber jabber! I told him I knew you when your clothes would cause a cigar store Indian to start making tracks in self defense but it didn't seem to affect his admiration."

"Please, Lois!" Greer implored. He ducked his furiously red face over his drink.

The blonde girl hooked her free hand through his arm in a gesture of affection, but continued her teasing. "So, here you are at last, standing beside the gorgeous Anette Winslow in her gorgeous new white dress, in her gorgeous Bel Air mansion."

Her brother chided impatiently. "Hurry along with your drink, Lois, and let's get on our way."

Protecting herself, she answered,

"Silver has to take advantage of his opportunities. How does he know he'll ever get another chance like this one?" She put down her glass and began whirling, admiring the play of her wide-skirted gown. "I might not have another date with Silver," she said with callous indifference.

Suddenly more spunky and talkative, Greer muttered, "You mean I might not have another with you, Fish-Face."

"He loves me! He loves me!" Lois sang happily, still dancing.

Anette said, "Silver possibly will see me again but not in this house. I'm selling it."

That stopped the blonde girl's dancing with a cessation so abrupt that the blue and spangled skirt whirled around her slim body, back again and finally was still. "You can't do that, Anette. You're important."

"That's why I can." She slid into the fur wrap James Lyndon was holding for her. Lois, looking extremely solemn, put on her coat also, the full-length silver fox one. Anette went on, "I'm tired of rattling around in this palladium. It's a ridiculous expense. I'm making exactly the same salary Larry did when he—"

After a moment's hesitation, she stressed, "quit pictures. He had a little over $15,000. I don't intend for that to happen to me."

She chuckled at the alarmed expression on her friend's pale features. "Don't fret, Lois darling. You won't have to visit me in a trailer camp, but I will be living in a house small enough that the Sealyham pup August gave me doesn't wear his legs off clear to his body, just running once through the living room."

Invitations they were forced to observe led the two couples from Carruthers' sumptuous party at the Imperial hotel, on through various hotels, houses and clubs, on down to Ralph Hay's smallish bachelor apartment party which, incidentally, turned out to be one of the most amusing, even if Ralph was a little tipsy and overly sentimental.

"Anette," he sobbed, "I love you for getting me the best job I've ever had. And I love sweet little Lois. I love you, too, Jimmy. You're my pal." He looked at Silver Greer. "And whoever you are I love you. I love Mr. Carruthers and Zenith, Incorporated. I love everybody!"

Having completed that encompassing avowal, he promptly went to sleep. Although most of the guests paid no attention to their host and continued with the party, some left, among them Anette, the two Lyndons and Silver. They went to Lois's and claimed their reservation.

Anette leaned against the high-backed sofa of their dining room and stared at the red ceiling, rather than at the hilarious holiday crowd. Lois and Silver began to dance immediately and as the dark-haired girl lowered her eyes to watch them, she knew she could not stand it any longer, the music, the bright voices, the mingled perfumes and warm air.

"Just say the word," She responded to Jimmy's intuitiveness with an apologetic smile. "You don't have to look at me like that," he went on. "I'm surprised you've lasted this long." He helped her in to her white fox coat.

She said falteringly, "I'm just "worn out." Inwardly she said, "And tortured by a thousand memories." Matching her little shoulder shawl of white paillettes was one for her head. She draped it over her gleaming black curls. "I can take a taxi, Jimmy. I see a dozen women who would love to dance with you."

"Indeed you won't take a taxi!" He stood up and beckoned to his sister.

Although her responses were concerned, Lois was having such a gay time that she wanted everyone else to feel the same exhilaration. "Oh, please stay, Anette. Everyone stares at me when you're along. I'll give you a healing." She put the stiff, outspread fingers of one hand upon her friend's brow and wriggled them, while holding her other hand to her own head. "There. Feel better now?"

The actress gave a feeble laugh. "You idiot. Thanks, but I still think I'll go home."

The ride home was a silent one as far as conversation went. However, as they drove along busy Sunset boulevard, the old year slid into the new one and such a din broke out that it seemed all the demons of hades were blowing horns and banging tin pans. Many and oft-repeated cries of "Happy New Year" battered at the other like words in a poorly constructed chorus. A car, allied with delighted, screaming high school youngsters, pulled from a side street into the boulevard traffic, clipped the fender of Lyndon's new machine and kept right on going.

"Aren't you going to do something?" Anette yelled through the racket.

The quiet blond man grinned. "No. They're just having innocent fun."

Through her amazement flashed the thought that Larry would have been ranting the instant before the collision. He would have followed the car and covered them. Of course he would have wound up taking the entire gang for sandwiches and malts but he would have delivered a magnificent second-act speech first. She burst into wild tears.

"Oh say now!" Lyndon cried. "Don't!" He swerved to the curb and stopped the car. And then he took her in his arms and kissed her without the least warning. Kissed her on the wet cheek, very near her mouth. "If she would turn her head the tiniest bit," he prayed silently, "I could kiss her mouth." He felt his heart pounding in complete co-ordination with the one thought that kept repeating itself until it seemed many thoughts.

He took her chin in his fingers, turned her head himself and kissed her mouth, her cheeks, her eyes, her mouth again. And she kissed him back.

"Darling," he whispered, "on, darling, darling, I should have done this a long time ago."

"No," she said. "Any time before now would have been too soon."

In the dizzily intoxicating moment, Lyndon realized voices still were heralding the new year. "Happy New Year," he said absently.

"Happy New Year!" the girl replied.

So, actually, it was January, not December, when James Lyndon kissed her.

Walnut Township Class Reports Much Activity

Walnut township vocational agriculture department in its agricultural-engineering course has been quite busy with adjustment, repair and painting of farm machinery.

At the beginning of the term projects were selected and old books completed, the 18 boys enrolled started to study physical principles involved in farm machinery construction. Approximately two weeks were spent in this study. While the students were engaged in this phase, the instructor, K. L. Holtrey, was using methods to interest boys in fixing their own machinery.

It was agreed by the class that mowers would include many problems which would give it valuable training, usable on other machines. In preparation for work the boys brought nine mowers into the shop. The instructor arranged the boys so that two would work together and that the two, as nearly as possible, would be similar in ability. Thus, some groups would have two boys of high abilities and others two boys of less aptitude.

The mowers were taken down, all parts cleaned and painted, after which the boys began to sort out worn or broken pieces. Local implement dealers furnished catalogues with names and numbers of parts, therefore the boys learned to order by number and also saw that it was hard to guess the proper parts.

After the parts came, the boys started to put the machines back together. In order to encourage the boys thinking the instructor refrained from answering questions even though they were putting things together wrongly unless there was danger of their breaking some expensive part. Some excellent discussions were noticed with their method of teaching. These boys would study all the machinery books in the department, then many times would ask their father's advice after going home. By this method more parents were interested. In the end the boy and teacher, and other boys having the same trouble, would get together over a machine and trace the mechanics of the trouble to an agreement. Then came the adjustments, and these were worked out by comparison of different mowers and study of purposes.

Bills Averaged
These mower repair bills ranged from $4.13 to $12.78, including paint, and the average total cost was $9.76.

When the nine mowers were nearly finished the boys studied grain binders with the result that two binders were taken in for repair with no computing of total repair cost as yet. These binders, however, were not taken down, as the boys have learned not to do unnecessary removing of parts which, of course, was planned in the beginning. It so happened that these binders had different types of heads, and experience was rich with binder-head study.

Because of the delay in getting parts for the binders, the boys studied corn planters and were able to get eight planters into the shop. These planters were studied as to principles and then as to possible adjustments needed — in fact, all were thrown out of adjustment by the instructor one evening after school and all 18 boys worked on the machines the next day.

The planters were repaired at a cost of from 65 cents for a valve spring and check forks for one plus $1 for paint, up to $7.30 which includes check forks, check rollers, wire-winding clutch, axle, tongue, springs and paint.

Several days later six more mowers came into the shop, also a sulky plow which was used for plow study. Later two wagons came in for repair and paint. These mowers are now in the process of being cleaned and having new parts put on.

The vocational agriculture department has a record chart including all parts bought, the owner, price, and parts number.

The department has arranged to take in one tractor for general repair and adjustment, and some small machinery such as cultivators, smoothing harrows, and discs. One of the boys plans to build a hog house and another a hog feeder for project use.

Activities Listed

Aside from project studies, the boys helped prepare a parent-son-and-daughter banquet which had an attendance of 225; had a public-speaking contest and are preparing for the state-judging contests in which the class hopes to enter six teams.

After the banquet the class purchased five registered Southdown ewes to defray its banquet costs and state dues for the next year.

FIVE FORDHAM FOOTBALLERS FIT FOR FLYING

McKechnie Picks Bucky Walters For Starter

CINCINNATI, April 14 — Bucky Walters, the Reds' leading pitching ace for the last three years, will take the mound today for Cincinnati in the official opener against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Max Butcher is expected to go the route for the Pirates and if good weather smiles, an inaugural crowd of 25,000 is scheduled to fill Crosley field.

Bill McKechnie is very optimistic about the current edition of Cincinnati's ball club. He believes the addition of Walker, Haas and Hensley have helped to strengthen the club immensely.

HERE'S LINEUP OF ESTIMATES IN MAJOR LOOPS

NEW YORK, April 14—Here's how the 1942 pennant races and contenders shape up in capsule, from this corner.

National League

St. Louis, the balance and pitching; should click this time.

Brooklyn, good but pitching doubtful.

Cincinnati, good pitching but spotty power.

Pittsburgh, hot and cold; weak on defense.

New York Giants, may surprise but will have to prove it.

Chicago, going down.

Boston, can't fall out of league. Reason below.

Philadelphia, always trying.

American League

New York Yankees, a cinch.

Chicago White Sox, only contention; real hustlers.

Boston, hot and cold team.

Cleveland, bound to improve with new leader. Should be fourth, could be third.

Detroit, ruined by losses; sorry prospects.

St. Louis, will show improvement but can't get them out of second division.

Washington, blues in the night.

Philadelphia, has promised to appear at the ball park.

FIVE DODGER FANS FIRST AT POLO GROUND GATES

NEW YORK, April 14 — The usual rabid fans were standing in line at dawn today at the Polo Grounds eagerly waiting for the gates to open for the Brooklyn Dodger-New York Giants game that will mark the start of the season in the metropolitan area.

And the first five men in line were Brooklynites.

There was one sour note. Eighteen year old Bob Morgan, although a resident of the borough of Brooklyn and No. 3 in the line, maintained stoutly:

"The Dodgers can't repeat."

BUCKEYES WIN, 3-2

COLUMBUS, April 14—Ohio State's nine had capped its opening game of the season today, defeating Western Michigan, 3 to 2, behind the steady twirling of Mauley and Shanley. The Scarlet and Gray baseballers accumulated their three runs on four hits.

The population of Russia, as of the 1933 official estimate, is 165,700,00—30 percent in excess of that of the United States.

BEN HOGAN ON TOP IN LIST OF MONEY WINNERS

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 14—Although he lost the Masters golf championship to Byron Nelson in their playoff, Ben Hogan today is still the leading money-winner of the year among the professionals.

The $800 second prize which Hogan took in the Masters gave him a total of $9,598, with Sam Snead in second place, $8,078, and Nelson, winner of the $1,500 Masters top prize, next with a total of $5,822.

Lloyd Mangrum is next in line with $4,386, followed by Lawson Little, $3,679; Chandler Harper, $3,307; Chick Harbert, $3,074; Sam Byrd, $2,996; Jimmy Thomson, $2,280, and Herman Barron, $2,130.

Hogan also is leader in the points standings for the Vardon trophy with 260 points, followed by Nelson, 204, and Snead, 154.

ST. LOUIS KEGLERS PILE UP GREAT 9,149 TOTAL

COLUMBUS, April 14—Several years ago ABC delegates turned down a proposal to award a championship to the team within the highest total pinnage for all events. Had that been in effect the Budweiser team of St. Louis would be far out in front right now.

The Chicago Budweisers held that distinction for a spell with 8,978 and then last week the Brunswick Red Crowns came in with 8,957. Now the Budweiser of St. Louis hold 9,149, or an average of 203 for the 45 games. Here's how the boys did it:

Name 5-man 2-man ind. Total
Brunsmann .605 610 580—1795

Taff .574 584 486—1644

Scheer .667 657 598—1922

Mataya .631 573 667—1871

Burton .634 537 745—1817

3111 2961 3077—9149

Yanks All Way

In the American league practically everyone concedes the championship once again to the Yankees. Victors by 17 games in '41, affected only at first base by the draft and with a steady infield, the Yankees should win by almost as big a margin as they did last fall. Chief opposition should come from the Chicago White Sox and the Boston Red Sox.

County Schools Join In Sale Of Stamps, Bonds

More Than $2,000 Goes Into Program Under Defense Program

Thirteen Pickaway county schools have sold defense stamps totaling $1,569.10 and bonds totaling $506.29.

Reports from the various rural schools submitted to County Superintendent George McDowell show several of the county schools to have sold over $150 worth of stamps and more than $100 worth of bonds.

The reports include all sales up to April 3, although the schools are continuing their stamp and bond programs until they close for the summer.

E. A. Smith, chairman of Pickaway county's stamp and bond campaign, said he was highly pleased with the work that was being done in the rural schools.

Reports of each of the schools follow:

Darby township, $128.95 stamps, $93.75 bonds;
Deercreek township, $91.85 stamps, $100 bonds;
Jackson township, $155 stamps, no bonds;
Monroe township, $175.60 stamps, $18.75 bonds;
Perry township, $68.25 stamps, no bonds;
Pickaway township, $35 stamps, $18.75 bonds;
Saltcreek township, $207.90 stamps, $106.25 bonds;
Scioto township, $93.85 stamps, no bonds;
Walnut township, $100 stamps, no bonds;
Washington township, $153.90 stamps, $131.29 bonds;
Ashville village, $130.55 stamps, $18.75 bonds;
New Holland village, $200.05, no bonds;
Madison township, $28.20 stamps, $18.75 bonds.

Three Types Available

There are three types of Defense Savings bonds, Chairman Smith explained, but Series E is the one most persons can afford to buy. These pay 2 1/2 percent if they are held to maturity. Thus in 10 years, a bond costing $18.75 is worth $25. A person may cash his bond, however, and get his money back any time after two months.

After a year persons buying the Series E bond will get interest as well. Series E, or "People's Bonds" run all the way from $18.75 to $750, and can be bought at the local postoffice. No person can buy more than $5,000 of Series E in one year.

Series F bonds are intended for clubs, estates and big organizations that have $74 or more to invest in National Defense. Interest is slightly smaller, Mr. Smith pointed out, 2.53 percent, and it takes 12 years for a bond to mature.

Series G is intended for persons who wish to collect interest on their bond twice a year, instead of saving it up to be paid all at one time when the bond is cashed in. The lowest-priced bond in this group sells for $100. The interest is 2 1/2 percent and it takes 12 years for the bond to mature. The limit is $50,000 for either F or G bonds or F and G combined.

LINDBERGH STUDIES B-24 PLANE MADE IN SAN DIEGO

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 14—Charles A. Lindbergh, who recently entered the employ of Henry Ford, was in San Diego today to study methods used by Consolidated Aircraft corporation in producing B-24 bombers.

After study and training here, Lindbergh will return to the Ford Willow Run plant in Ypsilanti, Mich., where he will help plan the production of B-24s being turned out there.

Price-Supporting Needs Cited By AAA Chairman

Greatest need in ten years for a price supporting program for wheat was emphasized Tuesday by John G. Boggs, Pickaway county AAA chairman.

The wheat marketing quota will be voted on May 2 and should it fail there will be no government loans on wheat available in Pickaway county. Should the quota pass, the loan rate will be about $1.20 or $1.22 a bushel, the county chairman indicated.

Chairman Boggs pointed out that under the present supply and demand conditions, the government cannot legally make loans on the 1942 wheat crop without making quotas. The United States, with its present 55 million acre allotment, would, under normal conditions, produce more than is needed for domestic purposes, export and the 30 percent deemed necessary for reserve.

This large reserve, Mr. Boggs reasoned, can be reduced only by a marked increase in the export demand, to have a year or two of less than average yields to the acre, to reduce the acreage allotments by legislation and to increase, materially, the feeding and industrial uses of wheat.

Exports Limited
Only exports expected the county chairman believes, will be the United Kingdom and smaller quantities to Spain, Portugal, Switzerland and Greece. The total exports will not exceed 400 million bushels and a large part of this will go to the United Kingdom exported by Canada. In recent months Canada has exported more wheat than Argentina, Australia, and the United States combined. The Orient always has imported wheat, but now that source has been cut off entirely.

If farmers are to take advantage of the government's wheat loan program, they probably will have to provide some means of storing their wheat on their own farms, Chairman Boggs said. Public warehouses still are congested with the 1941 crop and their is for the fence surrounding his green doghouse under the President's window.

Miss Anna J. Dresbach, present office assistant in the division of Aid for the Aged, will be promoted to investigator under the new setup.

The other day Falla observed his second birthday, and getting him to pose for the occasion proved the biggest job White House photographers have tackled in a long time. Only the intervention of Tommy Qualters, the President's bodyguard and a boon favorite of Falla made it possible.

Falla's indignant yelpings created such a rumpus that Qualters, fearing the noise might disturb the President, carried the dog to a safe distance in the yard. There, an effort was made to pose him with his front paws on a camera.

However, every time Qualters got him set, and stepped out of camera range, the mischievous scottie jumped away and began rolling in the grass. This went on for 20 maddening minutes before the photographers finally were able to snap a picture.

Then Falla dashed away after a squirrel.

SIGNIFICANT PRIMARY

The most significant primary election since Pearl Harbor takes place in Illinois today for the Senatorial seat now precariously held by the Chicago Tribune's "Charlie McCarthy." Senator Wayland (Curley) Brooks, a Republican, is up for renomination on his own party ticket, but because of the controversial atmosphere about his political mentor Col. Bertie McCormick, even with the advantage of being "in," he is not considered a sure bet for the renomination.

On the Democratic side, however, is the real race. There, a Quaker professor from the University of Chicago, Paul Douglas, has challenged the candidate of the Kelly-Nash machine, Congressman Raymond McKeough, and, much to the surprise of everyone, has picked up amazing strength. If nominated he seems pretty sure to beat out the "Curley" Brooks-Chicago Tribune combination. However, the Kelly-Nash organization has played significantly close to the Tribune in the past, so it is doubtful that the smoothly greased wards of Kelly-Nash in Chicago will ever let Professor Douglas get the Democratic nomination.

If they do, however, Illinois will have a real Senator in Washington instead of a "Charlie McCarthy."

WANTED, HOARDERS

Here's a chance for you to do some hoarding that will make a real contribution to the war effort.

The Government wants you, whether you are a big or little consumer, to start laying in next winter's coal supply now. The object is to ease the transportation strain when cold weather returns. Also it will ensure adequate coal supplies for war industries which will be roaring at peak levels then.

Unlike other hoardings, laying in a stock of coal is a real patriotic act. So far, however, the response from industry and householders has been very tepid. Authorities warn that unless coal purchases increase appreciably soon, drastic priority measures will have to be taken to avert a coal shortage and rationing next winter.

BROOKS, FOE OF F. D., PUTS HIS POST AT STAKE

CHICAGO, April 14—The nation's first primary since Pearl Harbor came to a vote in Illinois today, with U. S. Senator Wayland "Curly" Brooks taking the spotlight in his quest for Republican renomination.

A vigorous isolationist before December 7, Senator Brooks has announced that he will continue to criticize administration war measures if reelected, and the size of the "protest vote" against him will be eyed closely for this reason.

State Treasurer Warren E. Wright, Brooks' opponent, failed to get any Republican organizational support, from either wing of the party, but "went to the people" with repeated attacks on the senator's defense and war policy record.

At least 2,000,000 voters, possibly 2,500,000, were expected to cast their ballots for Republican and Democratic nominees before the polls, opening at 6 a. m., closed at 5 p. m. today. The Illinois primary vote total was 2,550,642 in 1938 and 1,647,373 in 1940.

Sharing top interest with the Brooks-Wright battle was a much more closely-contested race for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Congressman Raymond S. McKeough and Prof. Paul H. Douglas, one of whom will oppose Brooks in the Fall if he is nominated, appeared to be neck-and-neck for this berth. Both are pro-Roosevelt.

SCIOTO RIVER RETURNING TO BANKS; DUCKS IN AREA

Spring was returning reluctantly to the Circleville community Tuesday as the waters of the Scioto river were sliding back to normal and temperatures were a few degrees higher.

River stage was 9.53 feet Tuesday morning and still falling. The high waters have brought many ducks into the district and a wild goose was seen Monday near the disposal plant. Game Protector Clarence Francis reports that most of the water fowl already have flown to northern nesting grounds.

Streams in the district still are too high and too muddy for fishing, local sportsmen report.

A year ago Monday the mercury stood at 85 degrees and Monday it read 58. Low temperature Tuesday morning was 38, and the weatherman predicted showers and warmer weather by Tuesday night.

Kiwanians Gather For Williamsport Meeting; District Event Called

Circleville Kiwanians and numerous friends from the Williamsport and other Pickaway county communities gathered Monday evening in the Methodist church parish house in Williamsport for a dinner and program.

DR. CLYDE HISSONG

The first of a series of three to be held outside Circleville this Summer.

Nearly 50 men gathered for the event and enjoyed a ham dinner served by ladies of the church, and were pleased by motion pictures shown by W. E. Lutz, educational representative of the Standard Oil company of Ohio. The pictures included three reels which showed Ohio oddities and points of interest in the state.

Herschel Hill, club president, was in charge of the meeting. Attention was called to the Policeman's and Fireman's Ball scheduled Wednesday evening in Memorial hall and to a district Kiwanis meeting which will be held April 23 in the Warner hotel, Chillicothe. Dr. Clyde Hissong of Bowling Green, shown in the accompanying picture, will be the speaker. He is governor of the Ohio district Kiwanis clubs.

Dr. Hissong, who is dean of the college of education at Bowling Green State university and president of the Northwestern Ohio

Teachers association, will speak on "Kiwanis and Civilian Defense."

He has degrees from Miami university, Columbia university and Ohio State university. Before going to Bowling Green in 1923 he taught school and later served as director of the Sandhill Farm Life School in Vaas, N. C., Summer instructor at Miami university, assistant superintendent of Butler county schools and instructor at Ohio State.

Some of his books and magazine articles have been written in collaboration with his wife, who also has a doctor of philosophy degree from Ohio State. Dr. Hissong is a former president of the department of higher education of the Ohio Education association and member of the Advisory committee for Ohio scholarship tests. When not engaged in professional or Kiwanis duties, Dr. Hissong spends his time farming.

He belongs to five national honorary fraternities—Kappa Delta Pi, Kappa Phi Kappa, Phi Delta Kappa, and Phi Beta Kappa.
